Their music "fits in amongst peers like... Fleet Foxes, ...Fairport Convention... and Crosby Stills Nash and Young" (Rocking Magpie).

"One of Birmingham's finest emerging bands, this Moseley based quintet fuse bluegrass, folk, jazz, blues to produce a sound as compelling as it is entertaining." Glee Club Review

As heard on BBC Introducing, The Lost Notes are a Folk/Americana Roots band from Moseley, Birmingham. Formed in 2014 they have been "taking the folk world by storm!" (Folk For Folk's Sake Radio) with their energetic and entertaining live shows. They have recently straddled the divide, surprising Americana and Blues audiences, and all the genres in between, with their eclectic self-penned songs exploring tales of the wary, the hopeful, the loved and the lovable, the wild and the lost, the unhinged and the crossed, topped by the musings of a deliriously optimistic psychopath with a death wish. All delivered in glorious 3-part harmony! Their third album "Good Luck Shoes" is due for release in September 2024.
